A person is sitting on a log in the foreground, holding a flashlight that points towards the sky. The flashlight's beam illuminates the Milky Way galaxy, which is visible as a bright, hazy band of light across the dark night sky. The sky is filled with stars, and the Milky Way's structure is clearly visible. The background shows a calm body of water reflecting the sky and the distant lights of a town on the horizon. The overall scene is serene and awe-inspiring.

Daylights at Night

LED Street Lights are the most preferred choice as they last long and consume less electricity as compared to standard incandescent light sources, CFLs or Halogen lights. So, they illuminate larger areas without being too expensive.
